COOLIDGE AND CABINET TALK OVER POLITICS

Tax Bill and Debt Settlements Chief Subjects Under Discussion
DEMOCRATS WANT ISSUE Administration Anticipates Bombardment After Tax Bill Is Settled

Washington—President Coolidge and his cabinet Friday discussed the general situation in congress with respect to the tax bill and the debt settlements. It is important for executive branch of the government to make administrative plans with respect to both these measures and of course time is of the essence in the case of the tax bill. As for the debt settlements the administration is anxious to proceed with the negotiation of other debt agreements and is waiting to see how congress will treat the settlements already made.

There are evidences of a more or less active opposition to the debt settlements especially from Democratic quarters where the theory obtains that many Italian voters in this country do not wish to see the American government lending moral support to Mussolini by giving him the lenient terms that have been granted in the proposed settlement.

MAY ENTER POLITICS
It may be that a political issue will be made of the episode. This would consist of attacks by the Democrats but no serious delay to the ratification of the agreements for there are enough votes assured to put the pact through. It takes only a majority vote to amend the present law with respect to debt settlements and the Republicans will have some support from the Democratic side.

As for politics generally, the Coolidge administration anticipates a bombardment just as soon as congress gets through with the tax bill. In fact the fireworks have begun already with the demand for investigation. The Republican leaders realize that their Democratic opponents are groping for an issue so it behooves them to take the defensive.

1928 CAMPAIGN BEGUN

The congressional campaign of 1928 may be said in a sense to have begun. The Democrats expect this session of congress to yield an issue. On the tax bill both parties have joined and while the Democrats will suffer no political disadvantage from having agreed with the Republicans on the revenue measure they will on the other hand reap little glory as the credit always goes on things of that kind to the party in power. It was that way when the Wilson administration put through the Federal Reserve Act and several other measures for which political opponents voted.

The World court presents no party issue as the Democrats supported it with almost all their strength. What then will make the issue for the Democrats? They may possibly find one in the discontent in certain regions over the failure of the executive to settle the coal strike or in the agricultural situation in the west or in bills yet to be pressed for passage by the administration. But at this writing there is no outstanding issue in sight and the Coolidge administration is watching its corners to see that none appears.

RUSSIAN PRINCESS IS FOUND MURDERED

Moscow—(AP)—Princess Obolensky, 23, members of one of the oldest families in Russia, was found murdered Saturday in the snow outside a bathhouse in one of Moscow's principal streets. Police say the murderer is the janitor of an adjacent house, and that he already has confessed his guilt.
Behind the crime is a story of one of the most pathetic tragedies of Russia's great social upheaval, going back to the revolution of 1917, before which the girl's family was one of the proudest of the Czarist regime. When the bolsheviks seized power, it is said that the young princess, in whose care she had been placed, deserted her and escaped. Helpless, destitute and alone, the Princess Obolensky, several of whose relatives have found refuge in America, took shelter in one of Moscow's numerous night asylums for beggars.
Later she drifted into a life of the streets, seeking support from anyone who would give her food and lodging.

SCOUTS SEARCH FOR PATIENT WHO FLED HOSPITAL

Madison—(AP)—Madison boy scouts Saturday joined in the search for Sam Leonetti, 23 years old, of Kenosha, who fled in terror Monday from the Wisconsin General hospital as he was about to be subjected to an X-ray examination. Police believe the man is hiding in Madison as he was clad only in pajamas, bathrobe and bedroom slippers when he escaped from the hospital.

SENATE GETS BILL TO FORM STRIKE BOARD

Proposed Measure Would Apply to Future as Well as Present Coal Troubles

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Legislation to create a federal board of industrial adjustments for the purpose of involving public opinion to prevent anthracite coal suspensions was offered Saturday in the senate by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

The measure was introduced after a conference of Democratic leaders at which the coal situation was discussed. Senator Robinson had the bill sent to the senate committee with a request for early action so that the subject can be taken up by the senate after the passage of the tax bill. "The bill to create a board of industrial adjustments and to define its powers and duties, is not only designed to apply to the present alarming situation in the anthracite coal industry," Senator Robinson said, "it is also presented for the purpose of preventing a recurrence of this condition in the future, by ascertaining and fixing responsibility, and involving public opinion for the protection of the consumers of anthracite coal against the annual controversies between the operators and their employees."

CONVICT 10 MEN OF KIDNAPPING

Members of Band Take Child Away from Mother When She Marries Again

Bluefield, W. Va.—(AP)—Ten men alleged members of a red hood band known here as the Royal Riders of Mystery who, disregarding a court order granting custody of a child to Mrs. Jack Shoda, the mother, forced her and her second husband, an Austrian, to take it to the home of its maternal grandparents. Having been convicted on charges of kidnapping, "The Legion of Ghosts," as the band was known, objected, it was said, to a foreigner raising the child of an American.
Several alleged "riders" pleaded guilty after Frank Thomas had been convicted of the crime. Two others, previously tried, were found guilty and sentenced to a year in jail.
Six of those admitting their guilt were fined from $50 to $100. The others were sent to jail for 30 days. Thomas will be sentenced later. Ten others are awaiting trial.
Shoda said the hooded band came to his home at night and forced him to accede to their demands, the "ghosts" compelling him and his wife to walk in front while they rode on horseback. The men were arrested some time after the incident when a sheriff's posse was reported to have overtaken them in the act of visiting the home of another woman, who it was said, they planned to beat.

STILLMANS ATTEMPT REUNION

SENATE BILL WOULD CREATE DRY BUREAU

Measure Is Introduced in Congress Saturday by Senator Smoot

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Several changes in the present prohibition regime, including a proposal to create a new and separate prohibition bureau, were sponsored in congress Saturday by the administration.

The bill for a prohibition bureau, ranking with other bureaus in the treasury department, was introduced by Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee with the backing of treasury officials. At present the prohibition forces are under the jurisdiction of the bureau of internal revenue. Introduction of the Smoot bill followed disclosure that Secretary Mellon also was preparing to ask for amendment of the Volstead act, presumably to provide a new scale of penalties and differentiate between the bootlegger and the small consumer of liquor.

PROPOSE EXAMINATIONS

Almost at the same time, a house committee gave its approval to a bill placing prohibition agents under the civil service regulations. Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury endorsed the measure and both went and dry in congress supported it.

The new prohibition bureau proposed would have at its head a commissioner receiving $10,000 a year. All responsibility for dry law enforcement would be taken away from the commissioner of internal revenue and placed directly in the hands of the secretary of treasury who would delegate it to the prohibition commissioner.

The two new bureaus would function under Assistant Secretary Andrews. Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau would be entirely relieved of responsibility of prohibition enforcement. The bill was referred to the finance committee.

The bill reported favorably in the house would apply the civil service regulations to all prohibition enforcement personnel except the higher officials. Present employees would be required to meet civil service requirements within six months or drop out. This bill was introduced by Representative Cramton, Republican, Michigan, a dry leader.

WALKING ON TRACKS MAY PROVE FATAL TO TWO WAUKESHA GIRLS

Waukesha—(AP)—Helen Blyer, 17 years old, was fatally injured Friday night when she was run down by a Soo Line freight train. Vera Cook, a companion, was seriously injured. The accident occurred when the girls, who were taking a short cut home along the tracks, stepped from the path of a northbound train and were run down by a southbound freight coming from the opposite direction.

Will Propose Modified System Of Prohibition

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A modified prohibition system as a happy medium between the "civils" of Volsteadism and of the saloon era will be proposed at the second "face the facts" conference called by the association against the prohibition amendment to meet here on George Washington's birthday.

"The definite plan for government control under a modified form of prohibition designed to end the reign of the bootlegger and abolish the other evils" which the associations statement charged to the Volstead law, will be proposed by William Phelps Eno of Washington. The call for the conference comes as a new impetus for the perennial debate on prohibition and it follows closely the declaration of the church temperance society of the protestant Episcopal church for modification.

Describing the coming conference as a "major offensive against Volsteadism", the association announced that many prominent persons would participate as members of its various committees.

WILL DESCRIBE FAILURE

The general topic of the conference is to be "the complete failure of pro-

MOTHER OF MARIE PREVOST KILLED

Dies from Injuries Received in Auto Accident in California

Los Angeles—(AP)—Mrs. H. Prevost, mother of Marie Prevost, the film star, was killed and Al Christie, screen comedy producer, and Vera Steadman, motion picture actress, were injured in an automobile accident Friday night near Lordsburg, N. M., according to word received here early Saturday.

The accident occurred when the car, a heavy machine owned by Miss Steadman, overturned while traveling about 30 miles an hour, the message said. Mrs. Prevost suffered a broken spine and fractured skull, and died before medical aid could be summoned.

Christie and the actress narrowly escaped death, being pinned under the machine. Both were rescued a few moments later by occupants of a passing car.

Miss Steadman suffered bruises and lacerations about the face and legs, while Christie escaped with a lacerated arm and head.

NEW YORK BROKERS HOLD $3,513,174,154

New York—(AP)—Loans held by the New York stock exchange brokers on stocks and bonds at the end of January totaled $3,513,174,154, the exchange announced Saturday in making public these figures for the first time in its history.

The enormous volume of brokers borrowings created widespread surprise on Wall Street where conservative bankers expected the total to range between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000 in line with the latest official estimate of $2,500,000,000 made early in January. The highest official estimate on record was $2,800,000,000 at the peak of the bull market last November.

Assuming that considerable liquidation of loans took place during January the official figures would indicate that the borrowings of brokers at the height of the fall boom in the stock market exceeded $4,000,000,000. More than 71 per cent of the total loans were reported by call or demand funds which furnished the credit for speculation in the stock market. These amounted to $2,516,360,593, and the remainder $996,813,555 took the form of time loans which are devoted principally to carrying bonds.

HUSBAND CHOKES WIFE TO DEATH

Deed Is Outcome of Quarrel After Couple Returns Home from France

Manitowish—(AP)—Oscar Wroslon, 45, strangled his wife to death at their farm home west of this city at 2:30 Saturday morning and was captured in this city at 9:30 Saturday morning. He had passed the county jail two times but did not have the courage to give himself up. The wife is 47 years old.

The couple, with a son, Donald, aged 10, had attended a dance Friday night at the village of Branch. They returned home with a neighbor shortly after 2 o'clock and a quarrel ensued at the home after their arrival. The son ran from the house to Elmer Hargraves, nearby, where he said his mother and father were fighting. Hargraves started for the Wroslon home and met Wroslon, who was seeking his boy. The man started for the home of a brother-in-law to seek the boy while Hargraves kept on toward the Wroslon home where he found Mrs. Wroslon dead upon the floor of the bedroom. She had been struck on the head and strangled.

Wroslon walked to this city, called a taxicab from a saloon, went to the home of his daughter and told her the mother was seriously ill. The two went to the ship yards to get the son-in-law and Wroslon remained in the city while the other two started for the farm home.

Later Wroslon was picked up on the street here by Sheriff Kasten. He is said to have confessed to his deed and to have laid the blame to drinking. The couple were married 25 years ago.

SENATE GETS EVIDENCE ON ALUMINUM CO.

Offers Information Obtained by Commission Submitted to Justice Department

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Evidence obtained by the federal trade commission in its investigation of the Aluminum Co. of America will be turned over to the department of justice for use in its inquiry to determine whether the company has violated the court decrees against it.

The information, which the commission had declined to give the department of justice or the ground that it was confidential, was ordered surrendered to the senate by adoption Friday of a resolution presented by Chairman Cummins of the judiciary committee.

The resolution was adopted without a record vote after Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, told the chamber that the Aluminum Company, in which Secretary Mellon is a stockholder, was willing to have the data made public.

Although the evidence will be made available to the department of justice it is not expected that it will change the plans of some senators to demand a senate investigation of the company acting on the charge by the trade commission that it had violated the court decision. Senator Walsh, Montana, has proposed the independent investigation in a report to the judiciary committee in which he said doubts have arisen "as to the vigor and good faith" of the department of justice in making its inquiry.

The committee likely will consider on Monday the report of Senator Walsh, who was a leading figure in the recent senate inquiry into the department's investigation.

A. P. TO REWARD LAY REPORTERS

Captain Fried and Commander Rodgers Will Receive Gold Watches

New York—(AP)—Two men of the sea, whose straightforward, unvarnished narratives of heroic deeds thrilled the world, are to receive special awards as reporters of the Associated Press. It was the first time laymen have been accorded such honors.

Gold watches are to be presented to Captain George Fried of the U. S. S. President Roosevelt, who guided the rescue of 27 men from the British freighter Antiope, wrecked in mid-Atlantic recently, and to Commander John Rodgers, U. S. N., who with four mates, battled the Pacific for nine days last summer when lost in a 2,000 mile flight from San Francisco to Hawaii.

As honorary associates in the task of reporting world event, Fried and Rodgers will be given marks of distinction hitherto reserved for staff reporters of the Associated Press. They were selected because they were in the best position to tell an anxious public quickly and accurately what had happened. Wide use made of their narratives and the interest aroused by them showed, that, be it thrilling adventure or anything else, the great appeal is in the facts, intelligently presented.

FIND BODIES IN GRAVE ON RENTED FARM

Police Lay Deed to Three Men Who Rented Big Tract Several Months Ago

Edwardsville, Ill.—(AP)—Three men who several months ago rented a 200 acre tract near Hangeshoe Lake are sought by Madison-area authorities investigating the slaying of Constable Oliver Hockett, 28, and his assistant, John Batke, 24, whose bodies were found Friday in a shallow grave on the land.

MURDER IS BRUTAL

Discover 100,000 Gallons of Whisky and Two Stills on Land

A ghastly scene of brutal murder of the two officers by moonshiners who thwarted a raid is pictured by officials in charge of the investigation. The officers who disappeared Jan. 22 when they started out from Edwardsville on a liquor raid, are believed by authorities to have been captured by moonshiners and tortured for six days with their hands tied behind them with bailing wire before they were murdered as their captors abandoned their rendezvous. This theory is substantiated by the finding of fresh blood on the bodies. Corner Baer said the blood and the condition of the bodies indicates the men were slain Thursday afternoon or night.

FIND WHISKY, MASH

In an abandoned farm house near the grave, a squad of federal prohibition agents who found the bodies found vats containing nearly 100,000 gallons of whisky mash. They also found parts of two stills. The house is a small, one-story building, its windows shattered by bullets, gave evidence of a pitched battle between the moonshiners and the officers preceding the capture.

It is thought the officers might have raided the place in the absence of the moonshiners and were captured after a fight when the moonshiners returned.

That both officers were shot and killed while they were helplessly bound is indicated, authorities say, by the fact that each was shot under the left eye, the bullet penetrating his brain.

Faces of the victims were powder burned. Hockett's skull was crushed and it was evident he had been beaten over the head with a sharp instrument. There were no marks of violence on Batke's body.

It was learned Friday night that Sheriff Delming had obtained from an Edwardsville real estate office the names and descriptions of three men who had rented the tract. The land is known as the "Island" and is the center of a locality which in the last 10 years has been the scene of a number of baffling murders and mystery cases.

CRITICIZE COMMITTEE WHICH CONDUCTED PROBE

Washington—(AP)—The methods of the senate committee which investigated the internal revenue bureau were sharply attacked Saturday by a minority of committee which held that the bureau had emerged with a clean record.

The report was presented to the senate by Senator Ernest who held that the conclusions of the majority were to a large extent based upon evidence the committee obtained in violation of the senate resolution ordering the hearing closed. The committee he asserted "required the bureau to have prepared and submitted to it prior to June 1, photostatic copies of all returns and papers in the thousands of cases.

MODERNS UNDER FALSE CHARGES, MENS CLUB TOLD

Railway Attorney Refutes Arguments That World Is Going to the Dogs

The present generation is under a false indictment, John Baker, general counsel for the Northwestern railroad company in Wisconsin and president of the Men's club of the Grand Avenue Congregational church of Milwaukee, declared at a meeting of the Friendship class of the Methodist church at the church Friday evening. About 60 men heard the lecture. Clarence Phillips played a violin solo and Everett Hall sang.

Mr. Baker's address was given in the form of a brief, presenting the charges made against the generation, and then refuted the arguments. Self-consciousness, industrial, educational, and religious life are daily and continually changing, this generation with serious offenses foreign to previous generations, Mr. Baker said, and he proposed to present an argument for the present although the verdict could not be pronounced except in the years to come.

The indictments presented and refuted by Mr. Baker were: the materialism and greed, the weakness, physical, breaking down of respect for the law, muzzing up education, the making of a social and economic seminary out of the churches. He then gave some basic safeguards of clean living and thinking which would guarantee against surface disturbances, which deceive the public about the trend of the main current.

APPLETON POLICE MAKE 32 ARRESTS IN JANUARY

Appleton police department were busier in January in 1926 than in the same month in other years, reports for the first month of the year show. Thirty-two arrests were made. The big "business" probably is due to the open winter, which kept the motorcade on the job long past the usual period, as three speeders and a number of traffic ordinance violators were taken into court during the month. Drunkenness and disorderly conduct led in the number of arrests with five of the former and six of the latter.

Arrests for the month follow: Disorderly conduct, 6; drunkenness, 5; speeders, 3; parking in front of theatres, 3; operating a car without a license, 2; making U turn, 2; failure to stop for arterial highway, 2; disturbing the peace, 1; passing worthless checks, 1; violation of parole, 1; petty larceny, 1; larceny (car), 1; assault with intent to rap, 1; rape, 1; forgery, 1; driving a car without lights, 1.

Meanwhile the sprinklers were getting in their work on the inside of the office.

Information charging the girl with forgery, brought up Friday morning, declared the offense was committed on Dec. 14 instead of Dec. 12 as was specified in the complaint on which she was arrested. In view of the change, F. J. Rooney, appointed by the court to act as her attorney, asked for more time to make an investigation and the trial was postponed. It was thought that it would not come up for at least another week.

GOOD PRICES

The outlook for better prices for the remaining potatoes in storage is now brighter than any time within the last ten days. A slow recovery of the market is evident at Chicago. Quotations of the local market showed slight advance on Thursday. Prices as high as $3.10 per 100 pounds were being offered the growers.

Not possessing a license to operate as a real estate broker he is charged with violation of the statutes. On Feb. 2, the case was again in justice court before Justice Peter Holst, and upon motion of District Attorney O. L. PRISONER DIES

Word was received in this city Thursday morning by Mrs. Hannah Vook telling of the death of her son George at the Green Bay reformatory to which he had been committed a short time ago. As late as Tuesday the mother had received a letter from the son stating that he was feeling ill. Death came suddenly and is believed to have been the result of ulcers of the stomach. BEST YEAR FOR GRAHAM BROTHERS

Official Figures Credit Graham Brothers with Growth of 123% in 1925 Compared with Gain of 31% by Entire Industry.

The recent absorption by Dodge Brothers Inc., of Graham Brothers, the largest exclusive manufacturers of motor trucks, lends special interest to the new business record achieved by Graham Brothers during 1925.

Shipments by the truck industry as a whole, according to official figures recently released by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, totaled 492,000 units, an increase of 31% over the record of 374,317 for 1924.

By comparison Graham Brothers increase in total shipments from 10,791 in 1924 to 24,056 in 1925 from their four plants, Detroit, Evansville, Stockton and Toronto, a gain of 123% seems remarkable.

A Dodge Brothers executive is quoted as follows regarding these figures:

"An annual business growth of well over 100% is what would be expected by those who are familiar with Graham Brothers rapid rise from a start less than five years ago to their present position in the truck industry.

"Graham Brothers 1922 sales exceeded their 1921 by 181%; 1923 exceeded 1922 by 105%; 1924 exceeded 1923 by 54%; and now 1925 sales have beaten those of 1924 more than 123%.

"Month by month this year sales have surpassed the preceding month. In fact production for the first six months of this year equalled the entire production for 1924.

"At no time during the year, nor at any time during Graham Brothers history, has there been any overstocking of trucks by dealers. Our problem has constantly been one of increasing manufacturing facilities to supply the demand for our product.

"The number of trucks on hand at the end of November, compared with the number at the end of the same month last year, shows a substantially smaller increase than the rate at which production has been advanced.

This is because the big volume of retail sales has cleared the stocks of the dealers so rapidly."

"To produce sufficient trucks to supply the constantly growing demand," States Mr. R. K. Wolter of The Wolter Motor Company, local Dodge Brothers dealer, "Graham Brothers have been engaged in an almost continuous program of expanding manufacturing facilities. When they moved their Detroit plant into new quarters July 1 this year their 265,000 square feet of floor space represented an increase in space in Detroit of nineteen fold in a little over 4 years. Their plants at Evansville, Ind., which now occupy 201,000 square feet have made a similar growth during the same period.

"The new plant opened this summer in Stockton, Cal., for manufacturing trucks required by dealers in the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain States has an area of 40,000 square feet and the new Canadian plant at Toronto, Ont., 20,000. This gives Graham Brothers a total floor area of nearly 15 acres.

"The excellent business record made by Graham Brothers last year and their record of having risen in five years to leadership in the industry is unquestionable evidence," Mr. Wolter continued, "of public recognition of the merit of their product. Now that Graham Brothers business has been purchased outright and become an integral part of Dodge Brothers, Inc., the outlook for even greater achievement in 1926 is exceedingly bright."

BAR SMOKING AT HIGH SCHOOL CAGING GAMES

Athletic authorities of Appleton High school are making an effort to improve the moral tone at high school basketball games, according to Principal H. H. Heible. The principal objectionable features at games are smoking and throwing hot pennies for boys to scramble after. Possible injury to the players is advanced as a major reason for abandoning these practices, as the smoke makes it hard for the players to breathe, and there is danger of slipping on pennies left on the floor, it is contended. This happened at the Fond du Lac-Appleton game. It is said, when Ashman slipped a penny not found by the children.

The practice of throwing pennies is charged with cheapness, and smoking as being a bad contact for young people. The authorities hope to get the cooperation of fans attending the games as well as that of the students, in helping in the elimination of these objectionable features at high school games.

Crimson Rambler Play Packed Full Of Laughs

The Popham family of Ossian, Moria, and the twins, Lillian-Joy and Belinda-Jane, is one of the joyous features of the Crimson Rambler to be given at Fischer's Appleton theater on Feb. 19. Ossian is the country-side philosopher, and his poor wife Moria fervently declares, "One thing I hope I won't hear when I get to Heaven is, 'It's all for the best!'" Ossian is the practical and theoretical Pollyanna grown up, and he never fails to find the "silver lining," but his wife would actually enjoy a "good black cloud" once in a while just for variety from hopefulness at breakfast hopefulness at dinner and hopefulness again for supper. However Mrs. Moria does her full share in the neighborhood by giving homely advice in wholesale quantities. Lawrence Selg plays the part of the philosopher, and Miss Betty Post is in the role of his wife.

Catherine Arnold as Lillian-Joy, and Anne Boelsen as Belinda-Jane, are two of the many amusement producers in Rachel Crothers' play from Kate Douglas Wiggin's Mother Carey's Chickens. The twins wear their shoes on the wrong feet on Tuesdays and Fridays "Because they do run their heels over, so," according to Moria. Belinda-Jane recites poetry too, and knows fully 49 or 50 pieces, it is said.

Bill Harmon, the country store keeper, and his tall wife are the companion pieces of the Popham family, and Bill keeps noticeably silent through almost the entire play. Ralph Crabbe acts the role of Bill Harmon and Miss Laura Schoeller, is the wife.

IMPROVING RADIO RECEPTION
We think radio users will agree that reception this year has on the whole been much poorer than last year. Most of the trouble has come from a weakness of reception. Static annoyances remain about the same, neither better nor worse. There is scarcely a radio user who has not imagined at some time this winter his batteries were down or that something else was the matter with his machine, because of weak reception.

Various explanations for this condition have been offered. Some have asserted that atmospheric conditions were different and that the weather was responsible. Others are of the opinion that it is due to over-crowding of wave bands by the licensing of new stations.

One thing is certain, there has been much more heterodyning this year than last. We wonder if the sending stations which are putting on high-class programs realize the extent to which their efforts are nullified by the blanketing of their broadcasting by other stations. Some of these programs have been relayed through as many as eight or ten stations and at times it has been difficult to pick up the program at a single one, although they are the most powerful in the country. Frequently some are entirely blank, not a sound coming from them no matter how strong the receiving machine or how many tubes may be used. More often the programs are spoiled by fluctuating interference of other waves.

May it not be that the real cause of this new trouble lies in the great increase in power of broadcasting stations? There was a movement last summer and fall to raise the wattage of numerous stations. Many of the principal stations quadrupled their wattage or increased it even more. Where we had mostly 500 watt stations last year with a few of a thousand watts, we now have numerous 5000 watters, with at least one of ten thousand watts, and quite a number ranging from 1,000 to 5,000. As the power is increased the spread of the wave seems to widen, so that within a radius of say 500 miles or even 1000 miles the most powerful stations overlap, although theoretically they occupy separate wave bands. If this is correct, the leading stations in an effort to carry their reception farther and to overcome interference by smaller stations have defeated their own purposes, for they have to a great extent nullified each other's reception. A 500 watt station may be heard clearly across the continent if it has a free field. A thousand watt station would seem to be sufficient for all domestic purposes.

Unless an understanding can be reached, or regulations imposed, which will give the present high powered stations a free field during the hour of their broadcasting, we believe it would be better to reduce their wattage and return to conditions as they were a year ago. At any rate, it is a subject that both the government and the broadcasting stations may well investigate, for it is certain that the owners of receiving sets are not enjoying the reception they formerly did.

A WORTHWHILE INVESTIGATION
The resolution of Senator La Follette which provides for a senate investigation of the recent consolidation of two large food corporations, with a potential capital of $2,000,000,000 ought to be adopted. Although the Federal Trade commission has taken steps to investigate the merger through its legal department, we believe the senate would be justified in conducting an independent inquiry. One of the first, and to our mind, most legitimate complaints against our system of distribution is that the profits from the production of food supplies are realized almost entirely after they leave the hands of the actual producer. In other words, the farmer and grower are not receiving the returns from their labor, investment and service to the nation they are entitled to receive. Nevertheless, it is a fact that what they raise is made the basis of large profits in the hands of others. If they could participate in the profits derived out of the prices the consumer pays, they would be well rewarded.

Corporation undertakings, as well as speculative movements to control food supplies and to increase profits from this control, should be rigorously scrutinized by the government, and suppressed where there is shown to be a violation of the spirit and purpose of the anti-trust law and other legislation designed to keep the channels of trade open.

On the face of things the organization of a $2,000,000,000 food products company looks suspicious. All that may be said in favor of its economic value through increased efficiency and reduced overhead is apt to be over-balanced by its control and manipulation of prices for the enrichment of stockholders. The country should not be placed at the mercy of such a combination unless it is perfectly clear that it can be so restrained that it will not impose upon the consumer and the producer. Recent investigations conducted by the Federal Trade commission have not brought altogether satisfactory results. The case of the Aluminum company of American is not the only one in point. While the country may be somewhat skeptical as to the value of congressional investigation, nevertheless a senate inquiry, placed in the hands of competent and determined men, may be relied upon. A thorough going into of the Ward Food Products corporation can do no harm and may do a great deal of good. It is one of only two ways in which the public may be protected. We, therefore, hope to see the investigation Mr. LaFollette asks authorized.

ADVERTISING WISCONSIN
We have on our desk a copy of the December number of the Wisconsin Land of Lakes Magazine. Altogether, it is one of the best advertisements of Wisconsin that has ever been published. No one could help being interested in Wisconsin after looking it over. We easily fall for the alleged attractions of a resort heralded by two or three pictures of fish that are seldom caught, of sun whose warmth is over-displayed, of scenery that is to be found only in photographs. It is strange how a few pictures of this kind make us yearn for something, about the reality of which we should be decidedly skeptical.

Not so with the issue of the Land of Lakes Magazine to which we have referred. It is a faithful and elaborate reproduction of Wisconsin's scenic beauties and recreational delights. Furthermore, we have all and much more than it purports to display. If there are more alluring pictures of what other states have to offer in the way of outdoor pleasure, picturesque landscapes and downright loveliness of nature we have yet to see them. The Land of Lakes Magazine is to be congratulated upon the publication of this excellent number. It is one of the best of all ways to sell Wisconsin to the rest of the country. If it could be put in the hands of a million prospective tourists and investors it would be money well spent.

HOW TO TAKE A BATH AND OBLIGE
Will you please tell me, asks a correspondent of indefinite gender, how to take an air bath and oblige. J. C. W.
I am only too glad to tell you that, madam, if it will oblige E. C. any, I wonder if this E. C. is the person who gets so wrought up whenever I intimate that a lot of the wet washing some people do in print is entirely superfluous. Volume X of Who's Who in America against a corrective eating booklet or what have you, that it was none other than E. C. who sent me the clipping of a newspaper article about wrinkles and the complexion, purporting to be written by "Dr. Lillian Whitney." This elusive author—no such name is included in the American medical directly which lists over 160,000 physicians—appears to have some secret source of physiological information which is closed to the scientific world, for she gets off this bit of baloney at the close of the article.

"If you want to put your skin in the best possible condition you must rid it every day of the impurities it throws out. Remember, the skin is a great organ, like the lungs and kidneys. The body throws off daily a large amount of waste matter through the pores. If you do not cleanse yourself every day much of this waste is reabsorbed into the blood. Daily baths purify the blood from without."
That part where the waste is reabsorbed into the blood, that's the baloney. Maybe this Dr. Whitney is a doctor of philosophy or a doctor of divinity; anyway she is pretty good at divination.

Physiologists, dull unromantic, workaday folk, tell us that the human skin "throws out" practically nothing but salt and water, that the minor traces of various organic substances (which may be considered waste matter) excreted by the skin are insignificant and that the skin is not an excretory organ. Suppression or retention of the sweat or sebum (oil) secretion over a portion of the body surface or the whole surface, causes no effect which can be ascribed to poisoning. So anyone with a modicum of brains ought to be able to perceive that such balderdash as "Dr. Lillian Whitney" gets off in the article I have quoted is nothing else but. The soap barons, the bathtub people and the plumbers, brotherhood prefer that I refrain from trying to make the layman see where the inspiration for such balderdash comes from.

But to get on with our air bath. First we strip down to the dirt, so to speak. Then we sneak out on the roof or somewhere, if the neighbors and the police are not too watchful. Or if the neighbors and adverse to exposure, then we slip into the gym and open the window and do your stuff there in peace and comparative undisturbance. Throughout the duration of the bath we keep busy, tumbling, dancing, shadow boxing, exercising and if possible sweating, for sweat is an index of active metabolism. Occasionally we rub the air in with our hands. In 15 or 20 minutes we call it a day, rub down with a rough towel put on some clean clothes, the less the better, and hop back into civilized routine.

I said up in the gym. Every dwelling should have its gym somewhere—a place where any poor nut in the family may repair to do his physical stuff when so inclined. No particular equipment is essential—just enough space to permit one to do his rolls and so forth.

Anyone who gets such an air bath daily will keep as clean as the cleanest with rarely wet wash to worry his skin.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Boy Drinks Tea
Is it harmful for a 14 year old boy to drink tea? I have been told that it will make me nervous. I generally drink two cups a day and as yet I don't seem to be very nervous. (B. J.)
Answer—as a general rule children under 16 should not drink tea, coffee or cocoa, but instead of these stimulants of the nervous system, heart and kidneys, they should take fresh milk, for strength, health and growth.

Fears Another Month of Grace Might Make School Treasuries Run Short

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction, Anticipation of insufficient receipts to meet the requirements of the school district treasuries was the reason for the Brillion town board's failure to extend the time for the payment of taxes without penalty to March 1, according to information issued by John P. Otto, chairman of the board, this week.
Though the annual town meeting last spring had passed a resolution in favor of the extension of time, the town board later declined to give validity to this expression of the voters by withholding its two thirds vote of approval, which the law requires. In declining, the board was further influenced by the fact that those who sponsored the motion for extension of time last spring were among the first to appear for the payment of taxes in January.
Very nearly all of the tax has now been collected. Approximately, only $1,500 remains unpaid to carry the statutory 2 per cent penalty when treasurer Kremlman closed his office at the bank here last Saturday.

FROM THE HOLLYWOOD EXPRESS

The most beautiful dinner dance ever given in Hollywood was that of last night at the home of Miss Paula Perrier in honor of Mr. Melville Sartoris, who is en route to the Orient on a mysterious mission, in which he hopes to find a long lost Chinese god.

There were only twelve of the cinema's most brilliant woman stars, with their escorts, bidden to the dinner, but about two hundred and fifty of Miss Perrier's friends attended the dance afterward. On account of the distinguished traveler's known quest in the Orient, all the decorations were Chinese in character, some of the most famous Chinese savants and artists in Los Angeles being brought in to make the affair perfectly authentic.

The scene was like fairyland. The women wore the costumes of Chinese ladies, and the men were dressed as mandarins. The dress worn by Miss Perrier was given her by Mr. Sartoris, who obtained it from one of the prince's household on his last visit to China.

The dinner favors were in the shape of the little twin gods of Romance and Love, represented as a man and woman who are always made and sold in pairs. As it is almost impossible to get authentic ones, these were cast in silver by a Chinese metal worker who happens to be in Los Angeles, specially for Miss Perrier, from drawings made by Mr. Sartoris, who also furnished a careful description in writing of the statuettes.

One of these statuettes was attached to a bracelet to be worn by the men and women who were fortunate enough to be invited to the dinner. The women statuettes were given to the men, and the men statuettes to the women guests. These made unique slave bracelets, as the legend attached to these twin bibelots is that so long as a man wears one of them, and a woman the other, they will be true to each other.

At the dinner Miss Perrier raised a question which produced much curiosity and some laughter, as well as a twinge of fear in some of the more superstitious. She said:

"Of course I do not know if these little statuettes made almost in whole sale, as it were, will have the same power as those which are made in China of ivory and jade and coral and amber have had for hundreds of years previous. I would hate to think they would do so, because we might get some decidedly mixed romances."

"Which wouldn't be particularly out of place in Hollywood, according to our reputation," said one of the guests.

Miss Perrier, however, said that as the favors had not been matched up at all, probably the entire scheme of things had been shattered.

Among the guests at the dinner, although he did not stay for the dancing party, was Mr. Richard Summers, whose wife so recently died and left to Miss Perrier her newborn babe. This bequest made much gossip in Hollywood at the time, and it has not died down, as Miss Perrier declined to become the foster-mother of the child, stating that she could not give it the care that was necessary.

The party was a great success, and Mr. Sartoris sailed for the Orient today, followed by the good wishes of everyone, and the promise of another fete when he should arrive back in this country.

Adventures Of The Twins

THE GINGERBREAD MAN LOST
Nancy and Nick and poor Mister Havalook decided to follow the gobbler to the drain where, according to the story, he had seen the Rag Doll. "We'll go along and take the testimony," said Sniff Whisker, the rat in the tomato colored velvet suit, motioning to the rest of his policemen to follow. "We like drains any way."

"You can't go with us," cried Calamity Jane. "We're here to see this thing out."

"Yes, and we want all the witnesses we can get," shouted the Crinoline Doll, who seemed not to be able to speak quietly ever since she had lost her skirt.

"We'd better let them go," said poor Mister Havalook to the Twins. "If we don't give them their way in everything there certainly will be a revolution."

"Shall we start?" asked Sniff Whisker.

"Do, please," said poor Mister Havalook. And as usual he repeated, "Do, please," because he liked the sound. It sounded exactly like a king or president or something.

So off they started.

"Where's the train?" puffed Mrs. Jiggs. "I'm much too fat to walk."

"Yes, where's the train?" said Lm-

ber Legs. "I'm much too thin to walk."

"And I'm much too stiff," said the Tin Soldier. "Where's the engineer?"

But no Gingerbread Man answered when they called.

"Where is the Gingerbread Man? Where's the engineer?" all the dolls began to shout. "We can't ride to the drain without an engineer to run the train. Ho, Mister Gingerbread! Where are you?"

Suddenly Belinda began to stare with her China-blue eyes and fellowing the direction of her glance, the others beheld the gobbler with his head in the air, marching away on tiptoe.

"Murder, Thief!" shrieked the Hlidy Go people. "You ate the Gingerbread Man."

"Honest to corneribs, I didn't," said the turkey in surprise. "But I'll confess I was looking for him."

"I thought you were pussy-footing for something," said Sniff Whisker, the rat, then realizing that a foetid word had slipped out he looked at his policeman out of the corner of his eye and started to brush the dust off his shoulder as though nothing had happened.

Suddenly the Twins noticed something. Up to this time they hadn't said much, feeling as Sniff Whiskers said, that it would be used against them. And poor Mister Havalook was having enough trouble as it was.

But now Nick cried, "There's a little pile of crumbs, sir, and there are crumbs on three of your policemen's whiskers. It looks pretty bad, I think."

All the Hlidy Go people looked where Nick was pointing.

"And I think," said the gobbler, who had the first right, he felt, to put the blame on somebody else.

"And we all think," said Calamity Jane hollowly. "It's a plain case of murder."

"Oh dear! Oh dear!" sobbed Miss Crinoline. "Now I'll never get my skirt and we'll never be able to get to the drain or catch that old Rag Doll. A murder has come along to spoil it all."

"What's that?" asked a voice from the hissing engine. "What's all the fuss about. It's time to start if you're going to the drain. I was oiling my engine."

And there was the Gingerbread Man looking out of the window.

"Then what are those crumbs?" sniffed Sniff Whiskers.

"Just his coal-tail," confessed one of the policemen. "I snipped it off when he wasn't looking and divided it with my friends."

"I'll get my skirt yet," smiled the Crinoline Doll happily.

SMITH CAGERS IN EASY WIN OVER 2 RIVERS QUINT

Lake Shore Boys Held Scoreless in Second Half of 25 to 7 Game

Kaukauna—Kaukauna High school basketball team decisively defeated Two Rivers high by a 25 to 7 score at Two Rivers Friday evening.

The local team took an early lead and held it throughout the game. The score at half time was 16 to 7 and Two Rivers was unable to score a point the entire second half. The Kaw offense came after time carried the ball down through the opponent's defense for a basket. The Gonyo-Farwell combination worked perfectly and spoiled many an attempted Two Rivers rally. Despite the fact the Orange is accustomed to a hall with a high ceiling the boys played the same sterling game they would wear on their own floor.

Captain Gonyo, Farwell, Macrorie, Boyd, McEadden and Welch were in the lineup for Kaukauna.

HIGHS EKE OUT VICTORY FROM LITTLE CHUTE

Basketball Team Has Hard Time Defeating Visitors 19 to 15 Friday

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — The high school basketball team barely edged out a victory over the Little Chute quintet in Knights of Columbus hall here on Friday night by the score of 19 to 15.

The Red and White aggregation went into the game with a "cock sure" attitude of winning, and as a result, Little Chute started off with a bang, and walked away with the locals in the first quarter to the extent of 8 to 2. However, the Red and White woke up at the beginning of the second quarter. Cooley was substituted at guard for Becker, and they fought like wildcats from then on. But for the fact that New London has this year been none too skillful finding the basket, the local boys probably would have doubled the score they ran up. As it was, the game was a nip and tuck affair from the beginning of the second period on. The score at the end of the half was 10 to 8 in favor of the locals and had mounted to 16 to 12 at the end of the third quarter.

The Red and White lineup started out with Charlesworth and Becker at guard, Ladwig at center, and Jilson and Dernbach at forward. Only one substitution was made by Coach Potomski, that of Cooley for Becker in the start of the second quarter. The individual scoring for New London was done as follows: Jilson 3, Cooley 2, Ladwig 6, Charlesworth 2.

Bad Back After Grip?

Watch Your Kidneys After Colds and Chills
WINTER'S colds and chills often prevent the kidneys from properly filtering the blood. The result is slow poisoning that makes one feel all worn out. There is apt to be headache, sharp pains, bladder irregularities and dizziness. Don't neglect weakened kidneys! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. Are recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

Here is Appleton Proof:

And, Christl, retired carpenter, 311 South Locust-St., says: "I had such sharp pains in my back I could hardly stoop or straighten. My rest was disturbed because of the frequent passages of the kidney secretions, which were highly colored. I bought Doan's Pills at Walker's Drug Store and the first box brought relief. Two boxes of Doan's rid me of the trouble."

"THE GOLDEN STRAIN"
Victor Schertzinger has added another notable photoplay to his list in "The Golden Strain," Fox Film's screen version of one of Peter B. Kyne's best stories in the New Bijou four days starting Monday.
The picture is one of the most spectacular that even Schertzinger ever made. Much of the action takes place in Arizona and the famous Tenth Cavalry adds a striking touch of realism to the scenes where several hundred Apaches attack a Government supply train, only to be repulsed by Uncle Sam's gallant troopers. There have been Indian battles in other motion pictures, but there is realism in this one that quickens the pulse and makes the spectator tingle.
Briefly told, the story is that of a fighting coward—or rather, a young man who thought he was a coward until the supreme test came.
The cast supporting Miss Bellamy and Mr. Harlan includes Ann Pennington, Crawford Davidson, Frank Deal, Robert Fraser, Frank McGlynn, Hobart Bosworth, Grace Morse, Larry Fisher, Lola Mackey and many others of established screen rank.

FINE CAST IN FINE PICTURE
Audiences at the Elite Theatre will be fascinated and thrilled by the excellent cast of "The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen which is showing there today and Sunday with one of the finest casts ever assembled for a photoplay.
Monte Blue plays the leading role of Bob Snobson, a black sheep of a wealthy Eastern family, who turns tramp, and, in the solitude of the Colorado mountains and in work finds peace and happiness.
Willard Louis is his most amusing self as a happy-go-lucky hobo who relieves the tension of the thrilling weeks in this adaptation of Elmer Vance's melodrama.
Vera Reynolds makes an attractive little waitress, the heroine of Bob's romance; and Master Jackie Huff an appealing youngster who supplies many dramatic moments in the photoplay. Tom Gallery, Edward Gribbon, Otis Harlan and Lydia Yeamans

Titus are equally good in less prominent roles.

FILM IS TONIC FOR THRILL-HUNGRY FANS
If you like thrills, if you want to laugh, if you like romance, if you enjoy good acting, if you can appreciate a marvelous cast go to the Elite theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and see "The New Commandment," Robert T. Kane's initial picture for First National. It has all of the above and much more besides. "The New Commandment" is a society melodrama made to order for the modern movie fan. There are big moments in Kane's great picture.

NO GUESS WORK IN HUGE PLANT OF KOHLER CO.

Appleton Firm Well Satisfied With Product of Badger Company

Kohler enameled plumbing ware, one of Wisconsin's best known products is handled exclusively by Klein and Shimek, 611 W. College-ave. These Appleton plumbers have found that Kohler was satisfied patrons better than any other line of plumbing goods. A day spent in the great Kohler factory observing step by step the process of enamel ware manufacture reveals convincing reasons for the unusual excellence of this product.

The starting point is an immense foundry where a powerful electric crane is seen depositing loads of iron. The iron is of several kinds, each of which is weighed out separately before being melted. The reason is that Kohler chemists have carefully analyzed each type and have determined the exact proportion of each required for the best plumbing ware castings.

The iron is melted in huge furnaces, and by means of conveyors like a network of overhead railways, the molten metal is taken to all parts of the foundry and poured into molds.

The process of molding in the Kohler foundry has been brought to a high degree of perfection, as fixtures are cast in one piece whenever possible thus eliminating dirt catching cracks and joints. Much of the molding is done by means of machines made and patented by the Kohler company, with the result that the castings are made economically in quantity and have a uniformity scarcely obtainable otherwise.

The completed casting is placed on a slowly moving platform until it reaches a special room where it is made clean and smooth by sand-blasting, and it then ready to be enamelled.

Probably the outstanding feature of Kohler ware is the fine quality of enamel used on all fixtures. The ingredients of the Kohler enamel are mixed and melted in huge crucibles until a thick liquid is formed. This liquid is plunged into cold water where it forms large and irregular crystals. The crystals are dried and pulverized into a smooth and soft powder.

The castings are placed in furnaces where they become red hot. Then they are taken out for a moment, and the powdered enamel is sprinkled over them by means of an instrument resembling a flour sifter.

Kohler ware is becoming more popular every year in the furnishing of new and up to date homes, in Appleton and vicinity it has been found by Klein and Shimek. The beauty of the glossy smooth white enamel, and the attractive appearance of the fixtures has created a great demand for Kohler products.

MORE BUILDING IN STATE IN 1925 THAN IN 1924

Building and engineering contracts awarded in the state of Wisconsin during the year 1925 amounted to $36,304,300, an increase of 27 per cent over 1924, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. The construction record during 1925 included the following important items: $23,075,800, or 24 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $20,925,800, or 22 per cent, for public works and utilities; $11,976,100, or 11 per cent, for commercial buildings; $11,033,500, or 11 per cent, for industrial buildings; and $5,258,100, or 5 per cent, for educational buildings.

December contracts amounted to $3,193,500, being a 9 per cent decrease from November, and a 12 per cent increase over December 1924.

Contemplated new construction reported for Wisconsin during the past year amounted to $19,811,500. This was 15 per cent in excess of the total for 1924.

Foreign Business Grows As We Buy Foreign Bonds

Babson Park, Fla.—Roger W. Babson, in his weekly statement today, commented on our exports and imports. Where signs of inflation exist in so many other lines it is encouraging to see our foreign trade developing so steadily and naturally. Every year since 1922 shows a healthy increase. The continued decline which so many economists predicted would follow the war did not occur. Mr. Babson's official statement is as follows:

OUR SALES ABROAD
"As shown by the official government figures, our sales of merchandise abroad for the year 1925 amounted to about five billion dollars. These figures exceed all previous years excepting for the war period from 1916 through 1920. Furthermore, when the volume rather than the value of goods is considered, we find 1925 even exceeding some of these peak years. This is due to the decline in the prices of commodities during the past six years. This, of course, is encouraging because prosperity ultimately depends upon the amount of commodities exchanged rather than their prices. Although farmers may prefer a small crop and high prices, yet the world as a whole is far better off with a large crop and medium prices. People cannot eat or wear figures. Lumber is needed to shelter us, wool and cotton are needed to clothe us, and food is needed to feed us. Hence, when studying business conditions, one should give prime importance to the volume of goods produced and consumed.

"Upon analyzing our sales abroad we find them roughly divided as follows:

Value of Exports	Million Dollars
1924	1925
Animals & Products	452 453
Vegetable Food Products	436 551
Other Vegetable Products	278 268
Textiles & Wool	1142 1272
Wood & Paper	192 195
Metals & Products	467 479
Non-Metal Minerals	607 637
Machines & Vehicles	549 718
Chemical Products	112 129
Misc.	88 94
Total	4591 4909

*Includes re-exports.

In addition to noting how our exports are divided, it is also interesting to note in what the greatest gains were when comparing 1925 with 1924. The greatest advance of all was in Automobiles and Machinery, which shows a gain of over thirty per cent. The next greatest improvement came in Chemical Products which showed a gain of about thirteen per cent. Next came a gain in Textiles of about eleven per cent, and a similar advance in Metal Products. Of course this does not mean that we are exporting chemicals to Europe, nor are we exporting textiles to England. This gain in the business of these industries has been brought about by developing exports to South America and the Orient. Of course the exportation of automobiles has been to England and Europe, South America, the Orient, and, in fact, to the entire world. In my travels into the heart of South America and Asia I have found in the poorest Indian hut a Singer sewing machine, a Standard Oil can and a flour bag labeled with the name of a Minnesota manufacturer. In the cities are found American automobiles, typewriters, cash registers and other nationally known products, which, with our faithful missionaries, are making Americans famous. The total exports for 1925 show an increase of about 17 per cent over 1924, and the only prominent items showing any decrease are Vegetable Food and Other Vegetable Products.

OUR IMPORTS
"Our imports for 1925 show as follows, and the second table below gives a rough idea of how these are divided up. The greatest increase in value is in the group of Other Vegetable Products which includes rubber, while the only decrease registered was in the Machinery and Vehicle group.

Value of Imports	Million Dollars
1924	1925
Animals & Products	311 358
Vegetable Food Products	947 925
Other Vegetable Products	234 575
Textiles & Wool	877 1054
Wood & Paper	339 369
Metals & Products	250 225
Non-Metal Minerals	246 264
Machines & Vehicles	17 16
Chemical Products	122 142
Misc.	127 133

AMERICANS IN EUROPE LONG FOR HOME MENUS

Paris (A)—Although Europe may boast the best cooks in all the world, hundreds of Americans here are starving for American dishes. Few of the American women who settle here have not learned how to make that extremely thin and brittle toast which enables one to give a pretense of eating.

In France, saucers and butter and flour used as ingredients in the cuisine are terrible enemies for the waistline. In England, boiled unseasoned vegetables offer little temptation to the palate. No medals can be awarded in Italy and Germany for no woman who wants to wear fashionable gowns dares to eat much macaroni, spaghetti or ravioli. Wine and beer do not go with the slender boy-like figure.

Follow a party of American tourists, or go to a luncheon of American business men, or to a gathering of American women, and hear these pleas and complaints:
"My kingdom for some cornbread."
"If I could only get some nice brown waffles with Vermont maple syrup."
"Oh, for some real buckwheat cakes."

PATTERN SHOP MAKES REPAIRS ON BOWLING PINS

Alley Proprietors Can Save Money by Having Chipped Balls and Pins Fixed Up

Bowling is rather an expensive sport both to those participating, and to the owner of the bowling alleys. A great deal of the alley equipment such as new balls and pins to replace those that have been chipped and cracked. But there is probably much useless expenditure in the buying of new equipment of this kind, as many of the old balls and pins could be repaired and refinished. The place to have this work done in Appleton is the wood pattern shop of Al. P. Van Ryzin on 116 S. Superior-st.

Mr. Van Ryzin repairs about 300 bowling pins a year and also refinishes and recaps a great many balls which have become chipped or cracked. A cracked or defective pin or ball is extremely dangerous as it may break and cause serious injury to pin boys. The cost of repair is comparatively small.

Pins become chipped near the base make it difficult to stand them up steadily. This defect is easily corrected at the Van Ryzin shop by placing a new base on the pin.

The principal work done at the pattern shop is the making of wood patterns from which machine castings are made. Most castings are made from wood patterns. During the short time Mr. Van Ryzin has been in business he has made many patterns for some of the principal industrial plants of the central Fox river valley. Patterns are now being fashioned for the Fox River Paper Co., the Neenah Brass Works, and the Mollach Stoker Co. of Kaukauna.

SPRING BUYING HELP FOR LUMBER MARKET

That buyers are beginning to enter the softwood market for spring requirements is indicated by figures for the week ended Jan. 23, says the American Lumberman, Chicago. The mills during that week sold more than they shipped, and shipped more than they produced. Orders booked by 315 softwood mills having a standard for normal production exceeded the mark by 7 per cent, and shipments were 1 per cent above it, while actual production was 4 per cent below normal production of these mills. The 344 softwood mills making comparable reports received orders for 15 per cent more than their actual production, and shipped 10 per cent more.

Production of southern pine is restricted by rains and cold. The bad weather has less effect on the larger mills that contribute to the reports than on the smaller mills, many of which find it quite impossible to operate. The larger southern pine mills in the week ended Jan. 22 sold 20 per cent more than their output, and shipped 5 per cent more. Stocks at these mills are low, for during 1925 they shipped almost 2 1/2 per cent more than their output. Present business is coming largely from the South, especially Florida, but though the North and East are not active in placing orders, they are sending in a large volume of inquiry that promises brisk trading. List prices are stiffly maintained.

The West Coast fir mills sold 1 per cent more than their output during the week ended Jan. 23. Production has not yet reached capacity and it is doubtful if it will for some weeks. Many of the mills have overhauled ahead of them, and the industry as a whole is producing with a careful eye on the requirements of consumers. Business with the middle West appears to have made rapid gains. Bookings during the week ended Jan. 2, 9, 16 and 23 being respectively 1, 22, 136, 167, 1576 cars. Florida is an active buyer. California is a promising market, and soon the Atlantic coast must enter the market for spring building requirements. Export trade continues good. The relation being maintained between supply and demand promises a firm market throughout the first quarter of the year.

The call for southern hardwoods is still heavily in excess of the mill output. During the week ended Jan. 23, bookings of 112 units were about sixteen and a half million feet against production of about fifteen and a half million. Bookings of the northern hardwoods that week totaled 3.2 million feet against a cut of 2.7 million feet during their season of heaviest production. Furniture manufacturers and the flooring and mill work plants are good hardwood buyers. Prices remain firm.

METROPOLITAN TO MOVE
New York—Final authorization for moving the Metropolitan Opera Company has been given. After a long fight between Otto H. Kahn, chairman, and certain members of the board of directors, permission has been granted for the erection of a new building further uptown. The new building, of skyscraper style, probably will be opened in 1928.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARBARA HAWLEY, 25, set to be married to BRUCE REYNOLDS, and gets a job on Appleton Telegraph, in order to see life.
ANDREW McDERMOTT, the managing editor, is a former friend of her father. She makes friends with BOB JEFFRIES, police reporter, and through him meets JEROME BALL, man about town, at a roadhouse, where a prominent local man commits suicide, and Barbara covers the story. She picks up a red scarf left in the room by the unknown woman companion of the dead man.

Bruce has joined the real estate firm of Manners, Stone and Reynolds, which is promoting Vale Acres, a mammoth real estate project. LYDIA STACY, a rich widow, refuses to invest in Vale Acres, when Bruce fails to respond to her blandishments.

Barbara gets many letters from a girl named Violetta, which she prints and answers in the love column. She reads of Bruce's marriage to VIOLETTA CRANBY, a box factory employee, and realizes that she has engineered Violetta's campaign to win him.

Barbara's mother is taken ill. Suggestions of crooked dealings in the Manners, Stone and Reynolds enterprises are abroad. McDermott assigns the story to Barbara. She hesitates Manners leave town suddenly and reports it to McDermott, who tells her Lydia Stacy was the person who gave him the first tip on the matter. Barbara is sent to interview Bruce on the crash of the Vale Acres project and meets him in the crowded hallway of his office.

OW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX
 Barbara stood in front of him, but only looked down. His hands were deep in his pockets and his shoulders slumped.

She stared at him with large, frightened eyes for several minutes. At length he started and raised his eyes to her face. His brows drew together, as if he were trying to recognize her. He said nothing.

"Bruce," she whispered at last. At her word, he drew back. In an instant he had turned abruptly and one back into the office, closing the door in her face.

Barbara almost staggered as she turned away. In the front hall, the crowd had disappeared. She opened the door of the Manners, Stone and Reynolds company and found a throng inside.

The bald little Mr. Stone was standing on a desk trying to talk above the exclamations of the crowd. His voice could be heard only occasionally. "Now, gentlemen," he was saying, over and over. "Now, gentlemen."

Barbara pushed through to the front row. Stone recognized her. He stepped from the desk and seized her wrist. "Come into my office," he whispered. "I want to talk to you."

The crowd saw its prey escaping and made a move to block his way, but Stone and Barbara were too quick for them. They were in his private office and the door was shut.

"Look here, Miss Hawley," he tammered. "don't blame me for not talking last night. You know how these things are. An ounce of publicity will destroy what chances here are of recovery. I still think we'd have come through if the damn press had let us alone. I beg your pardon, but I sometimes swear when I am excited."

He looked so mild and his profanity was so different that Barbara almost smiled in the midst of agony. "You see, Reynolds and I never melted a mouse till two days ago. Reynolds went to Chicago to try to get a loan to help out. Manners must have guessed we were on to him and decided to skip before Reynolds got back. I'll swear we never thought he'd do it. In fact, we had the goods on him so straight I thought he'd not dare to make a move."

"But Reynolds and I are innocent in this. And if the public isn't too bloodthirsty. Maybe we'll save a scrap of reputation yet. You'll try to help us?"

He looked like a bashful child begging for a cookie. Barbara again tilted the wish to Laura. "I'll try to write the truth, Mr. Stone," she answered. "But I can't color it for you or anybody else. Will Mr. Reynolds make a statement?"

"He will if you can catch him," replied the man. "But my guess is that he's gone home. He looked so sick this morning that we tried to keep the crowd away from him. He's probably sneaked out the back door."

Barbara went down the inner corridor and knocked at Bruce's door. Nobody answered. She tried the knob. The door was locked.

She left the smile by the rear door and went back to the newspaper office.

McDermott was watching for her through a crack in his door. He called her in.

"I'm sorry Wells gave you that assignment this morning, Miss Hawley. Meant to warn him. But supposed you wouldn't care to have me lead for special privilege for you either. Did you get a statement?"

Barbara laid her hat down listlessly on his desk. "Not from Reynolds. But Stone says he and Reynolds are both innocent. The office was full of angry men." She sent herself and laid her head on the back of the chair. McDermott looked at her with compassion in his eyes.

McDermott. "Who'll take care of your mother if you break down?"
 "I don't know," said Barbara despondently. Her eyes were far away.
 She went back to her desk and sat down to write her story.
 "Have you a good hot story for me, Miss Hawley?" asked Wells, leaning over her shoulder.
 "I'll give you what facts I could get," Barbara spoke coldly.

At four o'clock, she called her home. The day nurse answered the telephone. "Your mother seems better, Miss Hawley. She has had something to eat twice today and is sleeping quietly now. Dr. Graham will be in a little later."

Barbara hung up the receiver with a lighter heart. "Do you know," she said to Bob Jeffries, as she was preparing to go home, "if only my mother gets well I'll not ask another thing of God as long as I live. Just one person in this world is all I need. But I do need her."

"Course you do, Babs and I hope she'll be all right soon. Believe me, I know what it means to be knocking around from place to place, without anybody that belongs to you. I haven't had even a relative to write to since I was a little kid. It's pretty bad—and still worse for a girl. Girls just weren't meant to live all alone."

"And what about men? The most pathetic persons I know are bachelors past 50. Far worse than old maids."

Bob only smiled.

Her mother was sitting up in bed when Barbara reached home. The fever held color in her cheeks and an unnatural sparkle in her eyes, but she looked better.

"Hi, there, mumsy," cried Barbara, throwing down a bunch of long stemmed roses. "See what I've brought you!"

The pink roses were scattered over the counterpane. Mrs. Hawley picked one up with caressing fingers. "Why did you do it, Babs?" she asked. "You have so many expenses just now. It worries me frightfully. Have you heard anything from my lawyer? I ought to have an accounting on my affairs soon. I'm afraid I'm a poor business woman."

Barbara looked away. "There'll be time enough for an accounting after you get well," she evaded. "Just enjoy those roses now and don't scold me for bringing them to you."

She ran into her own room to dress for dinner.

It was about ten o'clock when the doorbell rang loudly. Barbara rushed to answer it before it should wake her mother. She had spent the evening over her bills and her head was aching violently.

Jerome Ball stood at the door. "Hello, Babs," he said gaily. "Come by to make peace and to ask you out for a spin. Bob tells me you're having hard lines right now, sickness, and everything."

Barbara looked at him coldly. "It wasn't necessary for you to come." Jerome brought out a long box. It bore the name of a florist. "Something for the sick room," he said.

Barbara melted. The box was full of white roses and lavender sweet peas. "How nice of you, Jerome!" she cried. "This just about makes up for everything. Mother will love them." She called the nurse and sent the flowers upstairs.

"You look dead to the world," said Jerome. "Won't you ride around the block with me, for a little fresh air before you try to sleep? I really want to talk with you."

Barbara looked out at the frosty night. The house was close and warm. The faint odor of chemicals drifted down from upstairs. Her head was throbbing mercilessly.

"I'll go," she smiled, "but only for a few minutes." Jerome was handsome, notwithstanding his weary eyes and worldly mouth. Barbara enjoyed his masterful, protective manner.

The night air brought relief from the throbbing in her head. She began to feel better.

can't feel at ease, even young again. They drove in silence for some time. Jerome did not speak of the escapade that had ended their last ride together.

Barbara had made up her mind to forget it.

"Do you know you're an awfully good kid, Barbara?" he asked. "And a darn pretty one." Barbara blushed under the winter moon.

Jerome suddenly stopped the car. He put his arm carefully around her shoulders. Barbara drew away.

"I just wanted to tell you," he said. "I'm going to be married."

Lake Winnebago has every opportunity for remarkable development along this line, and all that is lacking is united spirit of the businessmen whose interests are so much in common in this respect. Lake Winnebago is unique among all the other lakes of the nation in the fact that it is the greatest lake in the entire United States that is situated within the border of any one state. This is a remarkable thing to be said about any lake, and from an advertising standpoint this is one of the most irresistible appeals that could be made.

 Lake Winnebago is not the largest lake within any one state because of being a marsh or a swamp, but it is a real lake, a most magnificent body of water, and if the right spirit of local pride could be aroused and stimulated, around this lake in a very short time thousands of people would be making investments of millions of dollars upon the shores of the lake.

"This magazine," it continues, "feels that some movement of this kind ought to be started by the business interests surrounding Lake Winnebago. This lake has five of the most flourishing industrial cities of Wisconsin on its border, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and on the eastern side, a few miles away from the shore line, is another thriving city, Chilton.

A Beloit company was awarded the contract for the general construction.

ORANGE MUST WIN TO KEEP UP WITH MANITOWOC QUINT

Johnson Team Holds Manitowoc to 18-11 Victory Friday Night

CONFERENCE STANDINGS

FRIDAY RESULTS
Manitowoc 18, Marinette 11.
East Green Bay 25, Oshkosh 16.
West Green Bay 14, Menasha 13.

DETERMINED to keep its record in the Fox River Valley Athletic conference clean, Appleton high school basketball team will meet Marinette Saturday evening in one of the hardest games of the season.

That the Johnson men will give the Orange cagers a taste of more than passing note is indicated by the game with Manitowoc at Marinette Friday night, in which the fast traveling Manitowoc squad was forced to the limit to win by an 18-11 count. Coach Johnson was a dangerous outfit strong enough to give any conference team a speedy battle.

The Marinette lineup at the start will probably include DeTemple and Parish at forward, Kresky at center, and Hubell and Dierker at guards. Coach McLaughlin will no doubt give seven or eight of his youngsters a try-out. Ashma not of course will hold down the pivot position, with Voecks and Pfefferle probably starting at guards. The call for forward berth rests between Heip, Strutz, Lutz and the two Cookson brothers. All are apt to see action.

Practice the past week has been devoted to perfecting of the defense, as well as a general polishing up of offense formations. Lutz and Frank and Al Cookson are both working into the team play in a manner most satisfying to Coach McLaughlin, giving the team a choice of five men for the forward jobs.

Four changes took place in the conference standing after Friday night's games. Manitowoc increased its hold on first place, which it shares with Appleton, by defeating Marinette. East Green Bay entered the win column for the first time this season at the expense of the Oshkosh aggregation by a 25-16 count. It was the fifth consecutive defeat for Oshkosh. West Green Bay and Menasha participated in a non-conference game at Menasha, the former winning 14-13.

The Orange cagers will have to come through with a win over Marinette Saturday evening if they are to remain on the top rung with Manitowoc. The race has evidently narrowed down between these two teams, and a single defeat for either may mean the loss of the championship.

CHICAGO AND OHIO CAGERS PLAY TONIGHT

Chicago (AP)—Each crippled by the loss of a star, Chicago and Ohio State meet Saturday night in the only west conference basketball game affecting leading contenders for the title while Minnesota and Iowa scurry for advancement in the second division.

The Buckeye's chances suffered a heavy blow in the injury of "Cunningham," center sophomore guard. McDonough, is out with a hurt ankle and his running mate, Hoegerer has had a spruch of fit and may not be able to play.

By a victory, Ohio can break its third place tie with Purdue. A win for Chicago will strengthen its hold on second division first place. Iowa and Minnesota hope only to get farther away from the yawning cellar position, now the unimpaired position of Northwestern. Wisconsin leads the conference and Indiana and Michigan are tied for second.

The conference swings into full stride again next week after a fortnight's abbreviated schedule due to examinations.

KIMBERLY TRAMPLES OVER OCONTO, 37 TO 7

Kimberly Athletics, the village's representatives in the Eastern Wisconsin Basketball league, defeated Oconto 37 to 7, in Kimberly Friday night. Kimberly took the lead from the start and was never headed. The Athletics led 14 to 7 at half time.

Kroll, Williams and Cook were the outstanding performers for the winners, netting six, five and four baskets respectively.

In a curtain raiser, the Kimberly school team and Kaukauna High school seconds played a 14 to 14 tie after two overtime periods. In view of the inability to break the tie after two extra periods it was decided to call the contest a draw.

ORGANIZE SECOND GREEK BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Plans are being made by Athletic Director A. C. Denny and Assistant Gebhart to organize a new fraternity basketball league composed of the Greek second teams. The purpose is to provide a sport for those fraternity men who do not get a chance to play in the big league. Games will probably be played on Saturday mornings from 8 to 12 o'clock.

BILLY EVANS Says

MICHIGAN CENTERS In football, Michigan has always been noted for turning out high-class centers. It seems to be a habit.

In recent years two Michigan centers have been All-American choice. I have reference to Jack Blott and Ernie Vick.

Great players, they deserved all the honors handed them, yet I am convinced that a certain amount of luck goes with even so mythical an honor as the All-American eleven.

Last year in Bob Brown Michigan had a center whom I regarded as the equal if not the superior to Blott or Vick, yet Brown did not attain the prestige that went to the other two stars.

Some western critics gave Tim Lowrey the preference over Brown in the Ten circles while McMillon of Princeton was generally rated higher in the All-American selections.

In addition to being a great center, Brown was the ideal fighting captain, who inspired a never-say-die spirit that did much to make the 1925 Michigan team an outstanding eleven.

Coach Yost regards it as the best team he ever coached; quite some compliment when you consider the many famous teams he has turned out.

ALL-AMERICA SELECTION

Recently in discussing football with Coach George Little, who had such a big first year at Wisconsin, I brought up the play of Bob Brown.

Little, who formerly assisted Yost in football at Michigan, is familiar with the play of Vick and Blott and helped develop Bob Brown.

"To me Brown was the outstanding center of the Big Ten. If not the entire country, said Little.

"As a defensive player against the line attack and forward pass, Brown had no equal in the country.

"Brown's play and fighting spirit was the spark plug that made Michigan a great team. If I had been selecting an All-American team in the line of writer, Bob Brown would have certainly been placed at center, or Blott in all things and in certain points of play their superior. That Brown wasn't selected unanimously for All-American honors was a whim of fate."

A great many coaches do not look on the All-American teams with favor but the reading public likes them, so the critics will go on picking 'em.

PITCHER ERNIE NEVERS

Major leaguers are wondering what success Ernie Nevers will have as pitcher for the St. Louis Browns. Nevers was a big star in baseball as well as on the gridiron.

That means something when you take into consideration that his coach, Glenn Warner, who also developed Jim Thomey, pronounces Nevers the greatest football player of all-time.

If Nevers makes good in big league circles he will kill off a jinx that has followed football-baseball stars for years. Mighty few of them have delivered in the majors.

As a matter of fact, college players, even those who didn't dabble in football, had a tough season of it in the American League in 1925.

Not one, with the possible exception of Pitcher Carroll, the Holy Cross star, got very far and he just about reached first base.

Even Carroll, who had won 48 out of 50 games as a college pitcher, found the going much different in the majors.

For several years college stars have not been such a howling success in the majors. In addition they have come mighty high, for most of them are good business men.

MAROON HOCKEY TEAM WITHDRAWS FROM ICE LEAGUE

Action Follows Refusal of Officers to Recognize Championship Claims

Unwilling to budge by the decision of the officers of the Fox River Valley Ice Hockey league providing that they play off a protested game with Neenah, Schlafker-Galpin Maroons, Appleton entry in the circuit, have withdrawn from the league. The withdrawal was presented to league officials at a meeting at Menasha Thursday evening.

The game under dispute was played at Neenah on New Year day with But's Candies. According to the Appleton team, But's Candies lost 4 to 3, while the latter claimed the tilt ended in a 4-4 tie. The Maroons maintained that Neenah made its final score after the whistle signifying the end of the game had been blown.

A meeting of officials was held Jan. 11, at which time Neenah entered its protest, and it was decided then that the game would be played off at Oshkosh last Sunday, according to R. C. Miller, president. Appleton failed to appear at the appointed time, and the game was forfeited to Neenah.

This caused a triple tie to exist in the league between Appleton, Neenah and Oshkosh. At the meeting Thursday night, the Appleton team, represented by Walter Bell and Joe Sharp, refused to participate in a play-off, claiming that they had rightly won the championship of the league, and when the officers refused to recognize the claim of the Maroons, the latter withdrew.

Oshkosh and Neenah will play off the tie at Oshkosh next Sunday for the league championship.

CHUTERS BREAK EVEN IN 2 GAMES

Defeat Wrightstown Thursday and Lose to New London on Friday

Little Chute high school basketball team broke even in its weekend battles, defeating Wrightstown at Wrightstown Thursday, 6 to 1, and losing to New London, 19 to 15, The Chuters, tired from their exertions at Wrightstown, were unable to put up their usual game at New London.

The Chuters started strong, however, and led 8 to 2 at the end of the first quarter. New London came back strong in the second period and when the half ended the northwesterners were leading, 10 to 8. New London increased its lead in the third quarter, snagging five points while Little Chute was making two, but in the last quarter the Chuters staged a rally which netted them five points while New London was setting four.

Little Chute lined up with H. Versteegen and B. Versteegen as forwards; Sanders and Vanden Berg alternating at center, and Miron, Schommer and Weyenberg as guards.

LITTLE CHUTE NOSES OUT BASKET VICTORY

Wildenberg's basket just as the final whistle ended the game ended Little Chute's pursuit of school of Little Chute to defend the second team of St. Joseph school of Appleton in a basketball game in Little Chute Legion hall Friday evening by a score of 7 to 6. The Appleton squad led 6 to 3 at half time but was unable to locate the basket in the final frame.

The lineups:
St. Joseph—Kamps and Murette, forwards; Heipass, center; Thess and Fisher, guards.
St. John—Wildenberg and Van Zanten, forwards; Doyle, center; Lamers and Vandervelden, guards.

PURDUE COACH AND STARS

Pete Jolly and "Cotton" Wilcox are two of the big dependables on the Purdue University basketball team. Jolly plays a guard, is a strong man on defense, accurate passer and can shoot goals. Wilcox plays running guard, is a splendid defensive player, flashy dribbler and an expert shot.

Last fall Jolly and Wilcox were members of the Boilemaker football team. Jolly was a tower of strength at center, while Wilcox scintillated in the backfield. He was an all-around star and the best safety man Purdue has had in many years.

On the basketball court the two make a great combination. And it is doubtful if any other team in the Western Conference can boast such a stellar defensive pair.

Working with Capt. Spradling, Harmonson and Cramer, Jolly and Wilcox form a quintet that is expected to give several of the Big Ten outfits a great chase for conference honors.

Adolfo Luque Hard-Luck Pitcher Of Major Leagues

BY BILLY EVANS In baseball certain pitchers are known as tough-luck twirlers. They don't get the breaks.

The breaks are a large part of a pitcher's success. He must have the smiles of fate Fortune if he is to perch at the top of the heap.

Adolfo Luque of Cincinnati stands out as the jinx performer of the National League, while Stanley Coveleskie has had his share of woe in the American.

In the spring of 1923 I dropped into the spring training quarters of the Cincinnati club at Orlando, Fla. The genial Jack Hendricks, manager of the Reds, was the first person I met. We started right in talking.

"What was the matter with Luque last season?" I asked.

"Always a great admirer of Luque's pitching cunning, I was surprised at the poor showing he had made during the 1922 campaign.

"Not a thing," replied Hendricks. "If he got the breaks he would have been right at the top of the heap."

"When he pitched my club always seemed to be off its stride. If Luque held the opposition to one or two runs, we usually managed to go into a batting of holding slump just as soon as he was announced to pitch."

In 1922 Luque, despite the fact that he ranked fifth in effectiveness as far as earned runs, was twenty-third in the matter of games won and lost. He managed to win 13 games while he lost 23. He led the league in games lost.

"If Luque just gets the breaks he will have a big season," was Hendricks' parting comment on his pitching possibilities.

Luque started to win at the outset of the 1923 race and kept it up all season. He got the breaks. His team always delivered behind his usual excellent pitching.

The close of the season found Luque not only leading in earned run effectiveness with the remarkable average of only 1.33 runs per game, but also the champion twirler in the matter of games won, with 27 victories against eight defeats.

"Luque was a great pitcher last season," was the way I greeted Manager Jack Hendricks in the spring of 1924.

"Not a bit better than he was the previous season when he won only half as many games," was Hendricks' reply. Luque simply got the good breaks that have been so long due him."

The season of 1923 was Luque's last season, the one big rift in the cloud of adversity that has pursued him. That year over, he appears to have dropped back into his old ways.

In 1924 he could win only 10 games while he was losing 15. Last season, despite the fact that he was the hardest pitcher in the National League to make runs on, he couldn't break even. His record was 16 wins against 18 defeats.

Luque's pitching record, covering his entire career, is the best example that could possibly be offered as to the value of the breaks.

He got them in 1923 and had his greatest year, was the leading pitcher of the National league.

FOUR PIRATES PLACE IN CENTURY-RUN CLASS

Pittsburg — Seven National League players got into the century-figure group in scoring runs last season. Pittsburg had four of them.

The Pirate quartet included Hazen Cuyler, "Pie" Traynor, Max Carey and Eddie Moore. Cuyler led 'em all with 141 tallies. Traynor had 141; Carey, 169, and Moore, 106. Glenn Wright, another Smokey Town boy, just failed to make the grade, having 97.

Rogers Hornsby and Ray Blades, St. Louis, and Zack Wheat, Brooklyn, were the other Heydler players in the select class. Hornsby crossed the home plate 133 times, ranking second to Cuyler. Blades had 112 scores and Wheat, 125. It was the first time in Wheat's long major league career he tallied 100 or more runs.

RETURN OF FOX WILL BOLSTER BADGER LINE

Madison—Another great line prospect has signified his intention of returning to school and should help to bolster the Badger line next fall. This young fellow is Kurt Fox, 217 pound youngster from Wausau. Fox has been in school before and was a candidate for the varsity in 1923. His return should tend to make the scrap a bit harder for some of the vets who are held over last fall at the guard position.

Fox announces that he is now in good shape and will report again to go for the long and strenuous fall grind that the Badger season calls for in 1926.

CUNNINGHAM LOOMS AS CAGE SCORING STAR

"Cookie" Cunningham, Ohio State's star basketball center, again looms as a dangerous contender for individual scoring honors in the Big Ten this season. Buckeye coaches see the tall lad as a possible successor to Johnny Miner, famous Stater of other years. Cunningham is one of the best, if not the outstanding, pivot man in Western Conference circles.

COMBS FAILS TO USE SPEED IN BASERUNNING

Earl Combs of the New York Yankees, one of the fastest men in the game, is only an ordinary base-runner because of his inability to get a lead, coupled with being a poor slider.

F. O. E. SQUAD ROLLS 1,856 AT WOMEN'S MEET

Better Scores Turned in During Second Day of Pin Tournament

Twenty-four booster teams performed on the drives of the Wisconsin Women's Bowling association tournament Friday, several turning in credible scores. The best count of the day was accumulated by the F. O. E. No. 574 squad, rolling on the late shift — Friday night, which amassed a total of 1,856 pins. This is the highest score bowled to date.

Gneiner's Kandy Kids, bowling on the same shift with the F. O. E. team, swept 1,732 pins off the spots for the second high score of the tournament. Valley Sporting Goods and Appliance Co. hit 1,633.

On the early evening shift George Walsh Co. set the pace, knocking 1,266 maples into the pit. J. Voigt rolled next on this shift with 1,196. The only other good score was that of the Henry Schabo and Son squad, which secured enough strikes and spares for 1,101.

Some very credible bowling was demonstrated on the late afternoon shift with the Aug. Brandt Co. team leading the field on 1,606. The J. C. Penny Co. rollers amassed 1,562. Schlitz Bros. Co. 1,352, and Outagamie Hdw. Co. 1,333.

HAVE YOU ANOTHER NAME FOR LAWRENCE ATHLETIC TEAMS?

Wanted: A new name for Lawrence athletic league. The quest has gone on with more or less intensity for nearly a year, and to finally bring it to a climax, the college department of athletics has offered a free trip to the Marquette-Lawrence game at Milwaukee, Feb. 20, the person submitting the best name.

The chief objection seems to be to the connotation of the word "Blues." Although the Lawrence colors are Blue and White, Coach Denny's teams are far from "blue."

Contributions may be given to Bruce MacLauris, sport editor of the Lawrentian, or to the gym office. Judging will be on Wednesday next week.

FAVOR LENGLEN TO BEAT WILLS IN NET MATCH

Offer Odds of 7 to 1 Along Riviera That Susanne Will Be Victor

Nice, France (AP) They are offering odds of 7 to 1 along the Riviera that Susanne Lenglen will defeat Helen Wills if they meet in a tournament at Cannes next week.

The reason for the big jump in the odds was the splendid game played by Susanne Friday against Mrs. Haylock of England whom she defeated in love sets. Miss Wills last week was hard put to defeat Mrs. Haylock 9-7, 6-2.

A Lenglen-Wills match has caused much ink to flow in Europe and America and which has created feeling along the Riviera now appears virtually certain. Both girls have officially announced their entry for the singles of the Cannes tournament which begins on Monday. They will be seeded in the middle and lower halves of the draw.

Both champions evidently are anxious to come face to face across the net and have a fight. Susanne especially has been fighting under great mental strain while Miss Wills usually cool and collected lately has shown signs of annoyance and is said to have decided to stake everything on her chances now. She has whether victorious or not may enjoy a little rest from the press spotlight in public life which has been following her every move.

Helen still feels on her overhauled game a big improvement and has been playing a 12-0-0 match every morning on the Cannes courts. For the time being she is taking the strongest men players in the line.

a Record Breaking Year ... and a still Greater Year to Come

With sales in excess of 250,000 cars, Dodge Brothers, Inc. have just completed the greatest year in their history.

Had it been possible to produce cars in sufficient numbers, their increase over 1924 would have been even more substantial.

This year the production problem has been mastered. A $10,000,000 expansion program stands completed—and the enormous output of 1925 will be nearly doubled!

Production on this stupendous scale makes possible the astounding low prices announced January 7th.

It makes them possible even though the car is better today than ever before. These are but a few of the vital refinements—

- Rich and attractive new colors.
- Absolute smoothness of engine operation.
- A new snap and elasticity of operation throughout.
- Smart and stylish new body lines.
- Complete vision from every angle of the sturdy all-steel body.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car has always been an exceptional product. With these refinements, at these new prices, it is without question the greatest value Dodge Brothers have ever offered.
